Former Suns Team Owner Jerry Colangelo Being Honored For ‘50 Years Of Golden Achievements’

By the close of the 1985–86 regular season, the Phoenix Suns had won 61 games, the most in an NBA season in franchise history, and the team had a 30–3 record at home. They finished the 1985–86 season with a 61–21 record, which was the best record in the Western Conference. The Suns were able to make it all the way to the NBA Finals, where they ultimately lost to the Los Angeles Lakers in five games. The team’s success was largely due to the contributions of Rickey Green, Kevin Johnson, and Van Chancellor. The Suns’ season was marked by a number of memorable moments, including a 130–110 victory over the Seattle SuperSonics on February 25, 1986, which is still recognized as one of the greatest comebacks in NBA history.

As the Golden State Warriors prepare for the start of action in the 2021-22 NBA season, there is much to be excited about, including the return of star Klay Thompson. Second-year big man James Wiseman is also going to have some buzz, as Warriors head coach Steve Kerr has been emphatic about his potential impact on the team. The Warriors’ hopes for the upcoming season are high, and fans are eagerly anticipating the team’s return to action.

The Warriors are looking to bounce back from a disappointing 2020-21 campaign, which saw them miss the playoffs for the first time since 2013. With Thompson and Wiseman alongside star Stephen Curry, the Warriors have a talented roster that is well-equipped to challenge for a title.

The Warriors’ success will depend on the development of Wiseman, who has the potential to be a force in the paint. The 7-foot-3 center is a long athlete with a high basketball IQ, and he is expected to make a significant impact on both ends of the floor.

With Thompson back and healthy, the Warriors will have one of the best three-point shooting tandems in the league. Thompson’s 40.7% shooting mark from beyond the arc in 2019-20 was the best of his career, and he will be looking to carry that momentum into the 2021-22 season.

The Warriors’ defense will be led by Draymond Green, who is coming off a 2020-21 campaign in which he averaged 7.8 rebounds, 7.3 assists, and 2.0 steals per game. Green is a perennial All-Defense selection, and he is expected to help the Warriors improve their defense, which was a struggle last season.

The Warriors’ season preview is full of excitement, and fans are eager to see how the team performs in the 2021-22 campaign. With a talented roster and a roster that is well-equipped to challenge for a title, the Warriors have the potential to be a force in the Western Conference and beyond.

As the Warriors prepare to take the floor for the first time in 2021-22, fans are excited to see how the team performs. The Warriors have a talented roster, and they are poised to be a force in the Western Conference and beyond. With Thompson back and healthy, and Wiseman set to make an impact, the Warriors will be a team to watch in the 2021-22 season.
